Good Evening Parents!

A lot of the students got right to work this Monday, and with their efforts, they built up and stocked the store. Annie B. portioned out Funfetti Dip; Stephen B. portioned out mini-marshmallows; Sofia P., Brogan B., and Laura B. portioned out large bags of potato chips into smaller bags; and Sadie S. made a large amount of Edible Cookie Dough, portioning it out for our Link store. Prep work, Portioning, and Inventory are all skills we are working on with the students for them to get points and make the program as self-sufficient as possible. (It's also helpful to learn should any take a high school job in the service industry.) The kids are doing wonderfully.

This week, the staff has decided to take back a little control of the weekly schedule. Once or twice a month, the staff will select new activities for the students to participate in, giving the students more options and choices for when they make the schedules themselves.

This week, on Tuesday, the students will try and figure out very common foods based only on the sight, touch and taste of its crumbs. On Wednesday, the students have a game on the computer called KaHoot! which, when played in the computer lab, turns the projection screen into a game show. Staff will come up with questions to find a single trivia winner. Thursday, we will set up an obstacle course in the hallways, and have students racing each other on scooters.

Should be a fun week! We hope you enjoy yours.

THIS WEEK (as determined by the ~~students~~ staff)

Marvel Monday continues with DOCTOR STRANGE

(Permission Form needed to attend.)

Taste Test Tuesday- How well can they decipher Crumbs?

Wednesday's Challenge- They will be playing a Kahoot! Tournament
