

Summer Reading Suggestions

Read whatever books you want, but here are a few good choices!

Join Billy as he figures out how to get through a year of school—with all the mess-ups and mistakes you can imagine.

2014 Newbery Medal honoree

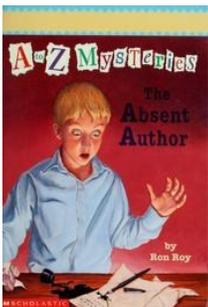

*first book in series

She's one of our favorite mischievous characters! This is surprisingly good on audio with Stockard Channing narrating.

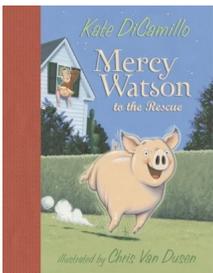

Newbery Award winning series

*second in series

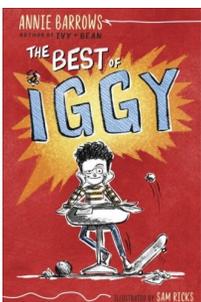

Looking for a good mystery? Try this one about Dink and his two best friends! Will they find the missing author before it's too late?

*first book in series

Make sure to have a big pile of toast with a great deal of butter (Mercy's favorite) while you read about our favorite "porcine wonder" Mercy!

*first book in series

Iggy is the hero of this book because he's the one who does the things in it. All the things he does (in this book) are bad. Every last one of them.

Auggie Pound has the best job ever—caring for all the animals in the fabled stables. The rarest and most magical animals in the world! When one is in danger, will he save it in time?

*first book in series

Princess Cora is sick of boring lessons. But when she writes to her fairy godmother for help, she doesn't expect help to come in the form of a crocodile, a crocodile who does NOT behave properly.

Ready for some scary stories? This is a great book to share at sleepovers or around the campfire at night or any time you want some shivers down your spine!

*second book in series

Six small stories about a sweet bear and his friends. Perfect for fans of Winnie-the-Pooh!

Aliens with oversized heads and brains. An evil (maybe?) space bunny. A goofy robot sidekick. Lots of space weirdness! A fun story about a fun gang of space explorers.